

RPA Simplified

A class of software that allows you to transact in any IT application or website typically in the same way a human would, to perform complex rule-based work.