

RPA Simplified

A class of software that allows you to transact in any IT application or website typically in the same way a human would, to perform complex rule-based work

RDA

Configured software that works in real time with a human operator by presenting a predefined set of information coming from different systems to assist the operator with the completion of operator-generated workflows or tasks